A ROUND OF TALK.

Mary And Me.

The automobile flatters by as jannily as a kin be. Old fashion drive is not enough. For Mary Jane an' me. For I kin drive with her own hand. An' Mary want complain. A how an' buggy drive the hill. For me an' Mary Jane. Their building wireless telegraph. For use across the sea. I don't believe they kin much good. To Mary Jane an' me. I'd rather whisper in her ear. An' walking down the lane. These new inventions ain't much use. To me an' Mary Jane. Electric lights is best 'n' hung. From chandelier and tree. They don't fill in your long foot want. For me an' Mary Jane. For as we strolled in years gone by. We like to stroll again. The moonlight's plenty good enough. For me an' Mary Jane. —Washington Star.

THE STATE FAIR—KENTUCKY'S STATE FAIR.

Kentucky's State Fair which was held in Louisville last week was largely attended by Washington county people and all enjoyed the exhibition. In point of attendance the fair was a decided success and the fact that the people of the State will turn out for the event gives assurance that the State Fair will be a financial success and a regular annual occasion for the exhibition of fine live stock and products of Kentucky soil. As compared with last year the 1902 fair was an improvement in every respect while in others it was not. Some classes of live stock were better represented last year than this, owing to better premiums being offered in those classes. The exhibits this year however included a greater variety and probably the aggregate amount of the premiums was much larger. An encouraging feature was the interest shown by visitors from all parts of the State. This interest and the large attendance was doubtless due to the liberal and intelligent advertising done by the management and the cheap rates and inducements offered by the railroads. They say that the amount spent in advertising the fair was a neat sum but the results show that it was a paying investment. After a year or two of success the State Fair should become a permanent attraction that will provide very little advertising and it will, provided the character of the exhibits are kept up to the high standard already set.

AS TO LOUISVILLE—A good deal of discussion has been indulged in pro and con, as to the advantages of having Louisville as a place for holding the State Fair. There is one thing that may be said in the beginning when making calculations about Louisville and that is the Louisville people can not be figured on as factor in a balance. The city people as a rule don't care two shakes about the champion bull nor the prize hog nor the gilt-smooth pig, and they simply will not turn out to see such attractions. It has been argued that so long as Louisville people do not attend, why not have the fair at Lexington or Owensboro or some other town where the people do care and will attend. Louisville will have all the advantages that will probably offset the shortcomings of her people in not lending their presence to the exhibition. In the first place the business men and the corporations want the people from the country to come in for obvious reasons and they are willing and do offer material inducements to that end in the way of a guarantee fund for each fair. Louisville too, is the most accessible point in the state and of course is better prepared to accommodate the crowds who will attend. As the State Fair becomes more and more a great annual event of importance there will likely be other towns to bid for it, but it is not likely that Louisville will be left when it comes to a matter of dollars and cents in the way of inducements.

Was He a Giant

In Holy Writ, we are told that there were giants in those days. Just what country they inhabited, we do not know, nor do we know when they became extinct, but that they did flourish in some countries in the dim past has been established by abundant proof. Some of their giants evidently found their way to Kentucky and died here, but how many centuries ago is hard to determine. Sheriff W. R. Cummings exhibited to us Wednesday the lower jawbone of a human being who must have been of extraordinary size. The jawbone was recently sent to him by Hon. Chas. A. Nelson from Eldridge. It was scarcely half the length of the jawbone of the workmen while quarrying rock for a new cell for the Eldridge penitentiary. It was found twenty-one feet below the surface of the earth. How many long centuries it has remained there, we can't tell. Trees with a diameter of three feet were growing on the ground above it. The bone is very large and will slip over the jawbone of the largest man who can be found in this country. Some seem to think it belonged to an Indian. Chief of huge stature or to some giant who lived, moved and had his being in some prehistoric age. The relic is in a splendid state of preservation and all the teeth with the exception of the four front ones are perfectly sound. For centuries it has been used as a specimen of pottery, taken from where the jaw bone was found, made by prehistoric people, the making of which now is a lost art.—Grasson Gazette.

The latest edition of the "Lives of the Presidents" has a chapter on the life of Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds and Whooping Cough. It is a most interesting and valuable work. It is a most interesting and valuable work. It is a most interesting and valuable work.

SALES.

The sale season is on and the usual number of sales of stock, farming implements and so forth is announced by our farmer friends. These periodical sales are generally brought about because of changes in ownership of farms and the consequent moving of the occupants to other localities, but a good many farmers have adopted the plan of having a public sale occasionally simply to get rid of surplus stock and turn it into money articles that would not otherwise be utilized. The public sale is a good thing in other ways. It establishes a market value of live stock and products and frequently affords a farmer a chance to buy something he really needs at a bargain.

LECTION.

The November election in this county and in nearly all of the counties of the state this year promises to be a very small affair. There is only one office to be voted in this county that of congressman for the fourth district and Dave Smith the present Democratic representative is the only candidate. The present of balloting and other red tape of a regular election will have to be gone through with however the same as if there were a dozen officers to be elected.

WANTED

We would like to ask through the columns of your paper if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Liver troubles that has not been cured—and we also want their recitals of how sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual constiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headache, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact any trouble connected with the stomach or liver. This medicine has been sold for years in all civilized countries and we wish to extend with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try one bottle first. We have never known of its failing, so, something more certain is like a silver pill. Ask your oldest druggist.

Attorney J. F. VanArndale was in Lexington Tuesday taking depositions in the case of H. Dean's administrator vs. J. C. Hester Lillard et al. against J. C. Hester's administrator and others on the question of fees to be allowed the attorneys in the case. Mr. Dean at his death which occurred in January 1892, was worth $60,000. Six attorneys, representing the heirs and the administrator were allowed by Judge Smith $2500 for their services. Some of the heirs, believing the fees were excessive employed a Nicholasville lawyer to set aside the judgement, and on the filing of the petition for this purpose, the attorneys consented that the judgement might be set aside when so done, and the case was referred to the master commissioner to hear proof as to the value of their services. The proof thus far shows that the services of the attorneys engaged in the case were reasonably worth from $500 to $600.

Operated On Sunday.

Surgeons performed a second operation on the President, cutting into the small cavity in his leg and exposing the bone which was found to be slightly affected. The operation was performed by Dr. Rixey assisted by Dr. Lung. Dr. Newton M. Shaffer, a New York specialist, was called in for consultation. It is said that there is no occasion for alarm as to the President's condition and that the local medical operation will hasten his complete recovery.

Opposed to Primary.

For Circuit Clerk.

We are authorized to announce the name of

G. F. BOSLEY

is a candidate for the office of Clerk of the Washington Circuit Court subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The merger of the L. & N. railroad which has been talked of for so long has been officially announced and the details with enough figures to make a poor man's head swim as given by the press dispatches are as follows: J. P. Morgan & Co. will exercise their option on the 305,000 shares of the Gates syndicate, paying 150. This stock cost the Westerners about 148. J. P. Morgan & Co. will turn this block and 100,000 shares additional over to a syndicate which is to provide $45,000,000 for the purchase. This syndicate in turn is to sell the 305,000 shares to the Atlantic Coast Line Company for $10,000,000 cash and $35,000,000 in four per cent, fifty year collateral trust bonds, secured by the $205,000 shares of Louisville and Nashville and $5,000,000 of Atlantic Coast Line Stock. Morgan is to retain $1,000,000 as his commission for carrying through the deal.

President Roosevelt has become interested in an endeavor to put an end to the great coal strike which is threatening the prosperity of the whole country and has had several conferences with members of his cabinet on that subject. It is a shame that some law cannot be found to authorize Federal interference to put an end to these labor troubles that can but result in hardships and disaster to all concerned.

Argument in the Chesapeake case is being heard by the Court of Appeals at Frankfort. Col. T. C. Campbell argued for sustaining the judgment of the lower court while Judge J. R. Morton appeals for a reversal for his client. The Scott circuit court sentenced Powers for life imprisonment for complicity in the Goebel murder.

As has been evident from the opening of the campaign, Charles McHard had his opponents all beaten so badly for the Democratic nomination for Railroad Commissioner that not one of them went the entire route and only one—Mr. Crockett—had the hardihood to last until the home stretch was reached.

The Louisville Horse Show, which is the occasion for Louisville society people to turn out on dress parade and incidentally to admire a few top-tailed horses, opened Tuesday night to a large crowd.

September wheat Tuesday in Chicago jumped 7 1/2 cents over Monday's price, and closed at 95 cents, the highest price since the latter deal in 1916.

Receipts for 28 years
"Mrs. Minerva Smith of Nashville, Ill. writes: 'I had chronic rheumatism and after got relief only by using Foley's Kidney and Urinary, it is a cure case. Contains no opium.' Sold by Hayden."

A stick in time saves nine and a dose of Bala's Kidney-Stray is worth many hours and even days of distressing and harassing cough. Price 25 and 50 cents. C. F. H. Co.

Home forever made unhappy by the Angel of Death. On Tuesday Sept. 23, Agnes the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Mudd took her departure for the bright realms above. This cherished little life, only a few months old, was laid to rest in the earth to bloom in heaven.

Misses Anna and Rose Osborne delightfully entertained at their home on Tuesday evening of last week, quite a number of their friends. Among those present was Harry Osborne of Bedford, Ind. in whose honor the reception was given. At 8:30 they were invited to the dining room, beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and fresh cut flowers where refreshments were served.
